LARA'S PROBLEM

I'm single and really want to have a baby, but with no man on the horizon and my biological clock ticking, should I use a sperm donor?

MICHELE SAYS

'Looking at your birth chart I see you have Neptune, the planet of illusion, dreams and pleasure, in Scorpio. This pattern means that you're quite intense, and when you are in a relationship one of you tends to be obsessive in the extreme.

'You look like a demure, feminine flower but you have Mars in Leo, which makes you proud and strong. If you're humiliated it affects you more than it would other people.

'This mix of pride and vulnerability in your personality means that, for you, a relationship is a full-on, complex thing, so it's important that you find the right man.

'I feel there has been a shock in the past. A drastic thing happened and it didn't make any sense to you at the time – something related to your father.

'It may have happened when you were seven or 28, and because of past traumas you've made a conscious choice not to let anyone get close to you.

'Your vulnerable streak stems from having the moon in Cancer, giving you a karmic tie to your mum. This combination also means you'll make a great nurturing mother yourself. She's your rock, but this closeness means it's difficult for you to be an individual when she's around.

'You've turned over the Ace of Wands tarot card, which signifies fertility. I see you having children, but not immediately. I feel that your mum doesn't want you to go down the route of a sperm donor. The Nine of Wands denotes defensiveness and the Queen of Swords means emotional blackmail.

'I suggest you arm yourself with the facts about sperm banks and then make a decision in a year's time. At the moment you're allowing your insecurities to block what comes to you.

'Having Aries rising makes you impulsive. Ask the universe for what you want – it's as simple as ordering a book from Amazon. Just say, "The right man will come my way."

'The next guy I see coming into your life will be a fire sign – an Aries, Leo or Sagittarius. A Leo would be perfect for you. It could be someone at work, or why don't you try speed dating?

'You're very sensitive and like to express your creativity. I feel you're not doing this at work at the moment, which might leave you feeling low.

'The Grief card has come up for you, which signals emotional poverty and defensiveness.

To help release anger you could write a letter of forgiveness to your dad, saying, "I let you go with love."

Instead of sending it, burn it. This will help you to move on. The Star-healing card has come up for you, which confirms what I'd felt intuitively.'

LARA SAYS

'Meeting Michele was great. She was so warm and compassionate, and got my personality spot on. I'm seriously considering the option of a sperm donor as I'm 37 and I feel peer pressure as all my friends are married with children. There isn't anyone special in my life now and it takes time to meet someone.

'I am a typical Virgo in that I worry a lot. Like Michele says,

I'm oversensitive and tend to take comments personally. My mum is my best friend, and it's true she doesn't want me to use a sperm donor. She'd like me to meet someone and settle down. I want that too, but it gets harder to meet people as you get older and I don't want to miss out on children.

'Michele was right about my dad, too. He left home when I was 16, which was a big shock for the family. I haven't had contact with him since. I wrote the letter forgiving him as Michele suggested and it did give me relief. But I think I may have to do the same ritual every couple of months to keep the good vibes topped up.

'For 13 years, I worked as a window dresser, but more recently I have been working for a computer firm, and I have felt that my creative side isn't being used as much as I would like, which does make me feel rather down. But it's a big company so maybe I will meet someone through work.

'I'm glad that Michele wasn't judgemental and dismissive about my considering using a sperm donor. It was sound advice of hers to arm myself with the facts and put the decision on hold for a while. So right now, I'm looking out for that sexy Leo.'
